Contemporary design is rooted in the moment, as in this moment, today, right now. Less is more, smooth profiles instead of ornamentation with solid or geometric patterned fabrics. While it doesn't have the overt warmth of older design styles, it won't cast a chill either. A strong emphasis on form and line, gives contemporary style its energy.

Function is as important as form to Mid-Century design. This look focuses on clean and simple, sculptural forms. Spanning a period of roughly two and a half decades in the middle of the 20th century, its' uncomplicated fresh aesthetic emphasises pared down forms, contemporary patterns and natural materials. It's unassuming, comfortable in its own skin and all the more chic for it.

Country Coastal designs are laid back. There are no strict rules here, so relax and enjoy the calm. Nothing beats a holiday at the beach! This light and airy look hits the sweet spot between classic elegance and contemporary sophistication. Its appeal lies in having the best of both worlds. If Goldilocks were decorating, Country Coastal would tick all of her 'just right' boxes: not too cold, not too formal, not too fussy. It's about meeting in the middle, but it's not at all middle of the road.

From antique furnishings to floral print fabrics, Classic style is an unstudied, collected approach, built on firmly entrenched local traditions and cherished objects handed down through generations. Simple and sincere, yet effortlessly elegant. Classic style speaks of country clubs and social graces, family traditions and a genteel approach to work and play.
